MISSOULA--

Three drug education courses offered this summer at the University of Montana in Missoula satisfy state teacher certification requirements, according to Dr. Patricia Douglas, director of the UM Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs.

"The State of Montana now requires persons working on education degrees in the state to complete such a course before degrees can be awarded," Dr. Douglas said.

A UM Pre-session course, "Psychology of Drug Dependence," Psychology 305, offered June 16-20, is designed to sensitize students to drug and alcohol dependence in the teen-age population. A major course goal is to promote understanding of the development of drug dependence as a behavioral syndrome.

Offered through the UM Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, "School Health Programs," HPER 460, focuses on the appraisal, prevention and remedial aspects of school health programs. Alcohol and drug abuse are examined in that context. The course is offered during the 1975 UM Pre-session from June 16-20.

"Use and Abuse of Drugs," Pharmacy 110, is offered June 23-July 23, the first 4½-week portion of the UM Summer Session. Areas explored will include the place of drugs in society and proper use of drugs. Also covered will be abuse of prescription drugs and drugs used for nonmedical reasons, kicks and sustaining addiction.

Information about other course offerings, registration, housing accommodations, food service and admission requirements may be obtained from the Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs, Room 107, Main Hall, University of Montana, Missoula, Mont. 59801, or phone 243-2900 to obtain a UM Summer Bulletin.
